About the Foundation

The principal aim of the Foundation is to promote the development of tennis in Australia by supporting and funding the development of young Australian tennis players showing Davis Cup potential.

The Foundation assists in this by either direct player or team assistance or by providing financial support for selected Player Development Programs conducted by Tennis Australia.

Established in 1971, the Foundation also recognises and honours both past and present players who represent Australia as part of the Davis Cup competition.

Since it was formed the Foundation has provided in excess of $2.2million of funding towards various programs.

All of these funds have been raised primarily through membership subscriptions and other fund raising activities.

Foundation President Todd Woodbridge:

“There has never been a more important time in our rich tennis history to support our young up and coming players to reach their potential and enable them to represent their country”
